First Down with Fr. Eric

Dear Friends,

Regarding the recent news from the Vatican regarding blessings, specifically for LGBTQ couples, and for the divorced who are remarried, at every Mass the priest blesses everyone. This always includes people who struggle with sin, or not fully living the ideal of the Gospel and Church teaching. The point of the blessing is God has a desire to bless everyone. What we do with the grace the blessings offer us is up to us.

Pope Francis is reminding us that a priest can bless anyone/everyone and this has always been done. Now the priest can consecrate only males with females for the blessing of marriage. There is a distinction (always has been) in the point and power of the blessing. Some can be offered by the non-ordained if given in the individual's name, like a dad giving his blessing to a marriage or a parent blessing their child like we do at Mass for Children's Liturgy of the Word. When done in the name of the whole Body of Christ, ordination is what is needed.

The Church is stating that in the name of the Church, a priest can bless a gay couple, as in asking God to help and guide them. The priest cannot bless a gay couple in the manner of uniting them in the sacramental covenant relationship. When a priest blesses many things at a given Mass and asks God to become a sign of grace, it is not the same as a consecratory blessing (of bread and wine for example). Pope Francis is NOT really saying anything new here. Blessings do not impart approval, they impart the grace to lead to approval. This can be confusing for people because we are at the mercy of all types of media that are not experts or understand how the church works. I would say St. Patrick has been doing this all along, blessing all types of people, being pastoral and compassionate. Calling people to deeper conversion. The Pope wants a bigger tent where there is room for everyone.

I hope this helps give a better understanding for people regarding how we strive to be an inclusive people of God.

Peace in Christ,

Fr. Eric

Christian Disciples in Mission Living Beyond Sunday

BY MARY PERMODA,
Director of Pastoral Activities

January 15, 1929 - April 4, 1968

Martin Luther King Jr. was an American Baptist minister, activist, and political philosopher who was one of the most prominent leaders in the civil rights movement from 1955 until his assassination in 1968. A Black church leader and a son of an early civil rights activist, Dr. King advanced civil rights for people of color in the United States through non-violence and civil disobedience.

We honor Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. this year on Monday, January 15. Dr. King changed the course of history and inspired us to build what he called "the beloved community."

Christian Disciples in Mission!

Dear MOMS Group, St. Patrick Parishioners and Social Justice and Outreach Team,

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for organizing the donation drive to help Monte Vista Baptist Church assist asylum seekers and migrants. Please let all those who donated know how much it was appreciated.

A little bit about Monte Vista. It's a small church in central Phoenix headed by Pastor Campos. Four days a week, the church welcomes 50-150 asylum seekers/migrants a day. They are dropped off by a U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement bus after they've been processed by the U.S. Border Patrol. The guests are given food, clothing, and help making travel arrangements. There are two mobile showering units. They are not at the church long, usually one night before traveling to their families or host families throughout the country.

The guests come from all over the world. I have seen more and more families with young children. Other government and non-government agencies assisting asylum seekers are reporting the same.

As I hand out toiletries I find myself wondering, how do these mothers make this long and dangerous journey with a baby in one arm and a young child in another. They are tired. Yet once they step out of the shower, combing their long hair and their children's hair, they are smiling. You can feel the hope, the renewal.

On behalf of all of them I thank you again, you have helped them 'walk' their journey. Faith in Action.

May you each have a blessed Christmas season filled with love, joy, and peace,
Lulu O'Meara, St. Patrick's Social Justice Ministry

Stewardship

Prayer: Lord, thank you for meeting me exactly where I am. Thank you for seeking me, even when I am sleeping. Thank you for loving me, even when I am unlovable. You are more than I deserve, yet you give me the great gift of receiving your love each and every day. May I never take for granted the fact that you were always seeking me. In my darkest moments, teach me how to open my arms wide, and receive the great wealth of grace you wish to lavish upon me each day. I love you Lord. Amen.

Do you look at your prayer life, Mass attendance, scripture study, and other “holy” activities as your pursuit of God? Certainly, we are all pursuing the Lord in our own ways, hopefully daily. That being said, it’s one of the greatest mistakes modern Christians make to believe that the Christian life is all about us pursuing God. In reality, Christianity is about God’s pursuit of us.

The first reading reminds us of this. Here’s Samuel, being discipled by Eli, and quite literally sleeping in the Temple, the dwelling place of the Lord. From this perspective, one could say that both Eli and Samuel were seeking the Lord. Both were responding to the great call of the Lord. The gospel mirrors and accentuates this point even further as we again see God calling out to those whom he desires, this time his future apostles.

Why does God choose to empower and use imperfect sinners in his mission of salvation? In part, it’s because he sees far more in us than we do in ourselves. As St. Paul affirms to the sinful masses in Corinth, we are not merely bodies; we are also souls. God looks at us as living and holy temples set apart from the world! The Lord is always seeking us, desiring to use us to spread his message of mercy and love. He needs only our humble and joy-filled response that is echoed in the psalm: “Here I am, Lord! I come to do your will!”

BABY HEALTH

Tips from the American Academy of Pediatrics to reduce the risk of SIDS-sleep-related infant death.

- The baby should sleep on a firm, flat non-inclined surface.
- Sitting devices, such as car seats, strollers, swings, infant carriers, and infant slings, are not recommended for routine sleep for infants younger than four months.
- Breastfeeding reduces the risk of sleep-related infant deaths, and while any human milk feeding is more protective than none, two months of feeding at least partial human milk has been demonstrated to significantly lower the risk of sleep-related deaths.
- Parents may sleep in the same room – but not in the same bed as a baby.
- Avoid parent and infant exposure to nicotine, alcohol, marijuana, opioids, and illicit drugs.
- Make sure the baby receives routine immunizations.
- Pacifier use is associated with reducing risk.
- Avoid the use of commercial devices that claim to reduce the risk of SIDS or other sleep-related deaths. There is no evidence that any of these devices reduce the risk of these deaths.
- Supervised, awake tummy time is recommended to facilitate infant development. Parents are encouraged to place the infant in tummy time while awake and supervised for short periods of time beginning soon after hospital discharge, increasing incrementally to at least 15 to 30 minutes total daily by 7 weeks of age.
