First Down with Fr. Eric

Dear Friends,

Most people do not have first hand knowledge of what prison life is about. We might have an image of what life inside is like through what we have heard, read, or maybe seen on TV or in movies. The struggle in society's view can be that people in prison have lost their right to be treated as human beings with respect and dignity. Yes, there are people in prison who have done horrible things, and some will most likely not return to society for serious reasons.

We are reminded in Matthew Chapter 25 to visit those in prison. Jesus goes on to say that Christ himself dwells in those who find themselves in prison.

This is one of the main reasons we have GET ON THE BUS, a ministry of parishioners and others who can see firsthand the trials of families who have loved ones in prison. Some of our parishioners sign up to go inside the prison and encounter the inmates personally. They see the unit wardens, their assistants and guards, and how they interact with the inmates. Even though this is an event to bring family members together with their loved ones in prison, this ministry is really about changing the hearts, minds, and attitudes of ourselves. To see God present in all the people in prison reminds us that no one, no matter what, ever loses the dignity of their humanity.

In the years I was able to offer Mass in the prisons, I saw Christ in the hearts of inmates that wanted to be loved and accepted, and redeemed. St. Patrick was present to all inmates throughout the Valley during COVID, as our Mass was the main contact many inmates had when no one was allowed in to serve.

My gratitude to all the parishioners and others who stepped up to serve in this important ministry. It is an eight-month process to make this all come together. It was another great experience for so many with this year's GET ON THE BUS for Mother's Day.

Peace in Christ,

Fr. Eric

Christian Disciples in Mission Living Beyond Sunday

BY ERIC TAMAYO,
Pastoral Associate

Trinity Sunday: Knowing God

This Sunday we celebrate the Solemnity of the Most Holy Trinity, also called Trinity Sunday. Every time we come to Mass, we begin by professing our belief in the Trinity together as we make the sign of the cross in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. The Trinity is always the starting point of our faith. As we make the sign of the cross, we invoke the power of the Trinity. It is an expression of faith that draws a connection between us and the love of God.

Where do you even begin talking about the Holy Trinity when the doctrine itself is called a mystery. Growing up you were probably taught different analogies to help you wrap your mind around the Trinity. There was the three-leaf clover, three leaves but one clover. Or the analogy of God like water, the same water but seen in three forms as a liquid, a solid, or a gas. Each highlights a certain aspect of the Trinity. Either highlighting the unity of God, or the distinct persons of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Unfortunately, these analogies ultimately fall short and if taken to their conclusion often lead to heresy.

We can spend a lifetime trying to make sense of the Trinity, and hopefully we do dedicate some time meditating on who God is. Even when we fall short, that does not mean we cannot still know God in a very deep and personal way. God always calls us to himself; he is always inviting us to get to know him better. But, how do we respond to God in return? God knows everything there is to know about us, how much time do we spend getting to know him? If we don't take the time to pray, we will never be able to deepen that relationship. I encourage you to take some time and reflect on the Trinity. Ask yourself, what do you know about God?

The love of God is given to us and dwells in us. This is especially true when we receive the Eucharist. We are all created in the image of God, and so we are called to reflect the very love of the Trinity to the world around us. Pope Benedict XVI once said, "Love cannot exist without this painful renunciation of 'myself', for otherwise it becomes pure selfishness and thereby ceases to be love". It can be helpful to also reflect on how we relate to others. Do we only focus on ourselves? How often do I help those around me? Am I only concerned with what is best for me? It is important for all of us to reflect on the mystery of the Trinity. Because whenever we take the time to learn about God, inevitably, we will always come to discover more about ourselves and who we are.

Stewardship

Blessed Trinity, the mystery of you leads me deeper into faith and trust. Guide me into a greater desire to have my life honor and glorify the perfect communion of love found in this mystery. I make this prayer in the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit. Amen.

There is possibly no mystery greater than the Holy Trinity. For centuries, saints, writers, atheists, and the theologians have discussed and debated the reality of three persons in one God. For those of us Christians, however, we tend to focus more on our relationship with God than we do on God the Father's relationship with Christ his Son, much less the role of the Holy Spirit.

In spending time and effort, focusing on the mystery of the Blessed Trinity, we actually gain new insight into our relationship with all three Divine Persons. It's when we pause and reflect on God the Father's sovereignty in Providence that we can better trust him in times of distress, as we see in the first reading. It's when we consider the gift we receive in the sacraments through Christ the Son that we can begin to understand our vocation and mission in the world, as affirmed by the gospel. It's when we meditate on the power and reality of the Holy Spirit within us that we begin to see how blessed we are and what it means to be fully alive as children of God, as we are reminded in the second reading.

The Trinity is a perfect communion of love, and as God's people we are called, not only to emulate it, but also to participate in it. The psalmist is, "Blessed are the people the Lord has chosen to be his own."

ROCK45 is off for the summer and will resume in the Fall. In the meantime, here are some fun, creative ways to nurture your tweens' faith this summer. Enjoy!

Reflecting on Scripture

Like most tweens, my kids rarely leave the house in the morning without first spending a few minutes in front of the mirror. So I use those brief but consistent moments to help them learn God's Word. Using a dry-erase marker, I write verses on the bathroom mirror to encourage or challenge my kids. They are spending time in the Word while they brush their teeth or combing their hair. After a week, I wipe off a word here and there and leave the marker out for the kids to fill in the blanks. I'm amazed how a few minutes each day helps them learn Scripture. - Sarah Blakeley
