First Down with Fr. Eric

Dear Friends,

There are many people traveling this Thanksgiving weekend. It is interesting that a meal would mean so much to so many that they will travel long distances and may even have to deal with challenges or distractions in their travels. The human spirit of gathering, eating and drinking with family and friends, and giving thanks is what makes this holiday time special for many.

This longing for gathering and enduring distractions is what Christians have done for 2,000 years. And it continues at this very moment. The Eucharistic meal is giving thanks to God for His continuous gifts to us. This meal invites us to be in relationship with others and to support one another in community. Yes, there are always distractions and things that can make it difficult to gather for the Eucharistic banquet. Yet, this Thanksgiving spirit reminds us that the inner spirit moves us to see the meal as important, life-giving and intimate with our loving God.

I am praying that everyone traveling this weekend will be kept safe, and be patient on the journey. And may everyone's gathering at the meal be memorable and nourishing.

Peace in Christ,

Fr. Eric

Our Coordinator of AV Eddie had a flat tire on the way to the 8:30 am Mass and Audio Visual Ministers Denny Pasternak and Zach D'Costa came to the rescue! They made sure the sound and screens were functioning for the 8:30 am Mass and that things went on without a hitch! Thank you Denny and Zach!

Stewardship

The past few weeks you have probably noticed a “shift” in the tone and content of the Sunday readings, in particular the gospels. As we’ve spoken about previously, the imagery has grown quite stark and the context of the readings has dealt a great deal with the coming Last Judgment. As we close this liturgical year, today’s readings crescendo with this parable that so strongly urges us all to be living rightly — for the Son of Man is, indeed, coming to survey and “repay” everyone according to their conduct.

We see Christ the King coming with the angels but in the role of a Shepherd-King, who separates sheep (the righteous ones) from goats. The separation is based not on our intentions but on our actions. How often or seldom have we served another in the name of Christ? Do we seek to serve “kings” (popular) but forget the lowly (unpopular)? It is by our actions toward God and others that our true nature — and our true “king” — is revealed. A shepherd, though having authority over his sheep, demonstrates his great love by serving them and risking his life for them.

This is an extension of the good shepherd imagery employed by the prophet Ezekiel in the first reading. We see God as proactively seeking out the lost sheep, even before any judgment or separation. We are given every opportunity to be in the Lord’s sheepfold. God is proactive which is a theme we see put forth to the Corinthians. God did not leave us in our death but, rather, pursued and ransomed us through His only Son. He is the shepherd who not only seeks out the lost sheep but sacrifices his life for them. He is a Servant-King, humble in His great power and unyielding in His pursuit and protection of us. His greatness was veiled as meekness on Earth but reveals the power of His great glory — for the shepherd became the Lamb and the Lamb sits on the throne forever and ever.

Social Justice

After ten years of serving the St. Patrick Catholic Community through the Just Chocolate Ministry, it is time to recognize that the mission and goal of Just Chocolate is now completed. Our goal was to help the women and children of Ghana maintain their freedom by purchasing and advocating for their fair trade chocolate products. Our Just Chocolate ministry has allowed children to be in school rather than working in the cocoa fields, for women to get paid fair wages while taking ownership of their futures, and for farming families to stay together.

By purchasing Divine Chocolate produced by the Kuapoa Kokoo Co-op and owned by the workers & farmers of Ghana, we recognize the beautiful support received from you, the parishioners, of St. Patrick. SERRV International does continue to distribute Divine Chocolate to many organizations who seek justice through Fair Trade.

The Co-op is now thriving, and several thousand Ghanese farmers own their product which contributes to a sustainable future through fair trade.

Just Chocolate began in 2013 as a vision realized from faith formation & education studies from a Just Faith class.

We thank the loyal supporters, the staff at St. Patrick, and all our ministers who sold chocolate which helped us achieve a dream and for helping contribute to a sustainable lifestyle for the farmers and workers in Ghana.

A very big "Thank You" to ministry leader Katie Woodward and all of her ministers who shared this vision with our parish over the years. Their work and efforts positively impacted the lives of those farmers and families 7,000 miles away!!! What a wonderful testament to our social justice pillar of charity and justice.

Our last day to serve Just Chocolate is December 3, 2023.
