First Down with Fr. Eric

Dear Friends,

On Monday we celebrate another Labor Day. This holiday can be seen as an end to the summer way of life, and it leads us to the season of fall which has a different rhythm in our lives. Labor Day is also a reminder that humanity has the dignity of work, a gift from God that we use our skills for the benefit of others, including all humanity.

Pope Francis has some good quotes on the dignity of work:

The Pope said the Bible describes God surveying what He has done and finding it “very good.”

“Work contains goodness within itself, creates harmony between things - beauty, goodness - and involves every part of the person,” he said. “This is man’s first vocation: work. This gives dignity to mankind. Dignity makes us similar to God.”

Pope Francis went on to tell a story about a man who visited a local Caritas center to find food for his family. One Caritas employee told him: “At least you can bring some bread home.” The man replied: “But it’s not enough to bring food home. I want to earn my daily bread.” The Pope said this man was lacking dignity, the “dignity to ‘make’ his own bread through his work.”

“Every injustice inflicted upon a person who works means trampling upon human dignity, even the dignity of the person who carries out the injustice...on the other hand, the vocation God gives us is much higher: to create, re-create, work. But this can be done only when the conditions are just and human dignity is respected.”

Wishing everyone a blessed Labor Day as we honor the dignity of work.

Peace in Christ,

Fr. Eric

Stewardship

If you were offered either “the easy path” or “the hard path,” which would you choose? Obviously most everyone would choose the easy path. Who wants to add additional work, strain, and stress to their life? Have you ever had one of those weeks where everything goes wrong and you look up to heaven as if to say, “Seriously, God? Seriously?!”

As we hear in this week’s readings, though, it doesn’t sound like the easy way is God’s way. Take Jeremiah, for instance, in the first reading. The young prophet is annoyed — even angry with God here. Jeremiah realizes that living for God and speaking for Him has brought personal hardship and difficulty, yet he knows that God makes it all worth it in the end.

St. Paul, likewise, is telling the believers in Rome (under Roman rule) that they should “present [their] bodies as a living sacrifice.” He is calling for a physical submission that will bring spiritual freedom and eternal joy.

St. Peter is just giving us a natural human response to the news of Jesus’ impending suffering in the Gospel passage. Who among us would “wish” any type of suffering upon another, especially the one you care about the most? Jesus is quick to point out, however, that we must not view suffering as the world does. Suffering is a way in which we are challenged and refined in order to grow in holiness and in love. St. Peter didn’t understand it that day but, in time, he assuredly did, offering his own body on a cross decades after the Passion, Death, Resurrection, and Ascension. Peter beheld the glory that comes from suffering and testified to it with his own blood.

In Christ and in the cross, our own sufferings make sense. When times get tough, we need to get going to Jesus, and keep going with Him.

Social Justice

St Patrick's Just Coffee Ministry will again be selling coffee in the Narthex on the September 9 & 10 weekend. Our parish has been a partner with the Mexican Cafe Justo cooperative farmers since 2007. The mission is to provide high quality, certified organic, freshly roasted coffee to customers for a price that is fair and just.

Selling this Cafe Justo coffee product supports the farmer cooperative in Mexico and provides their workers with livable wages and job opportunities, ultimately keeping families together on their own land. This is a faith in action ministry at St. Patrick that addresses immigration, trade imbalances, and poverty in third world countries. All workers and families receive healthcare, pensions, and profits are reinvested in their communities.

The farmers are proud of their coffee product, adding a personal touch by placing their names on the packaging. They earn over twice the amount per pound offered by the international corporations. You are not just buying any ordinary coffee - you are buying Just Coffee, which is a Fair-Trade product.

We invite you to support this coffee ministry and share in our Justice response towards these farmers and their workers by purchasing this excellent coffee. We are in need of additional volunteers to help sell coffee once a month at any Mass you select.

Contact Richard DiCarlo at rdicarlo@stpatcc.org, or 480-998-3843 ext. 107. Or you may email justcoffee@stpatcc.org.

Women today lead busy lives while caring for their families and communities. Peace, hope, and love answer life's biggest questions in God's word – The Holy Bible. Join other women like yourself for the St. Patrick Women's Bible Study! Beginning on September 26, we will meet on Tuesday mornings from 9:30 - 11:30 am in the church St. Matthew room.

Parishioner Gail Melone has been attending Bible Study for the past three years: "I love getting together with other women to learn and talk about things that matter. It has deepened and strengthened my faith and love of God. Our experienced leader, Barbara, uses a curriculum and structured discussion to guide us in learning how to apply the truths of scripture to our daily lives; this has equipped me to share my faith with others better. And after class, there's often time for fun, fellowship, and making new friends for anybody who wants to join us for lunch at a nearby restaurant."
